ABOUT THE FACILITATOR

Cissy Rock is committed to working with people to uncover what already exists and work in ways that value those impacted. She is not afraid to give her opinion and will roll up her sleeves to help make things happen.

Cissy works with the dynamics of systems addressing symptoms of patronisation, inclusion/exclusion and how to build cohesion. With over 15 years' experience working with communities and local government, she has found that integrity is at the heart of her work and the heart of her trouble making.

Cissy set up Community Think Ltd in 2015, to stand in her belief that together we do make a difference. She is continuing to collaborate across Aotearoa undertaking campaigns, project development, change management, coaching, supervision, workshops and facilitation.
