Community-led Skills Focus for this Session: Activating Community-led Change

Community Building Blocks is an online session over Zoom designed to strengthen your community-led development (CLD) practice and foster regional connections.

During this session, you will:

- Hear stories of how CLD approaches are making a powerful difference.
- Discuss the challenges and opportunities of applying CLD at this time.
- Learn and apply a CLD tool to support your community-led mahi in your place.
- Identify actions going forward to make the most of opportunities in your place.

This year, we have all had to adjust to new ways of working, learning & doing.

Facilitated by | Anna Parker

Supporting the growth of strong and resilient communities is at the heart of Anna's mahi. Currently the director of Mātāwai Consultancy, Anna is a reflective practitioner and a systems thinker committed to social justice, and thrives when working cross-culturally, e.g. when supporting communities to navigate their journey with Te Tiriti o Waitangi.

“I'll provide an introduction to community readiness and asset mapping. We'll explore ways of noticing what local people value now and what is already available to work towards achieving goals that matter locally.”

CLD Clinics – 1:1 Online Support

For those needing some specialist advice, Inspiring Communities offers direct support through our online CLD Clinics. Book a time that suits you and get your free 60-minute support in a 1:1 mentoring session with an experienced CLD Practitioner. Dive deeper, and apply the CLD tools specific to your project or community's needs.

CONNECT - Communities of Practice

Join a CONNECT group to continuously build on your CLD learning. CONNECT brings together small groups of 5-6 people who meet online once a month to explore and deepen their community-led practice. All sessions are facilitated by an experienced Inspiring Communities Practitioner, and a great way to learn, connect and share with others across Aotearoa working in locally-led ways.
